Jellyfish are free-swimming marine animals with a gelatinous umbrella-shaped bell and trailing tentacles. The bell pulsates for locomotion, while stinging tentacles are used to capture prey. Jellyfish are found in every ocean, from the surface to the deep sea, and a few inhabit fresh water; they have roamed seas for at least 500 million years. But they are misnamed, as they are not vertebrates nor true fish. Aquariums may use the term jellies instead. Jellyfish do not need a respiratory system, since their skin is thin enough for oxygenation by diffusion. The body is 95 to 98% water, with the umbrella mass mostly gelatinous. Lifespans typically range from a few hours to several months. They are carnivorous, feeding on plankton, crustaceans, fish eggs, small fish, and other jellyfish. Ocean currents often congregate jellies into large swarms or "blooms" with hundreds or thousands of individuals. Human contact with a tentacle can trigger millions of nematocysts to pierce the skin and inject venom which sometimes causes an adverse reaction. First aid includes deactivating the nematocysts with vinegar or salt water (not alcohol, spirits, ammonia, fresh water, nor urine) and removing the tentacles by scraping skin with a knife edge, safety razor, or credit card.

Keep Your Brain Sharp

The psychologist says: PLAY GAMES. Try doing a word scramble, crossword puzzle, or sudoku against the clock. Choose hobbies that keep your mind engaged - painting, writing, playing board games [Ed. Note: & bridge!] and do them regularly. (Cynthia Green, PhD) The neuroscientist says: TAKE A BRISK WALK. Exercise triggers positive changes in your brain, including forging new connections between nerve cells, increasing blood flow, and even creating new brain cells. (Arrhur F. Kramer, PhD) The neurologist says: EAT YOUR VITAMINS B, C, D, and E. Whenever possible, try to get these nutrients from food instead of pills. Avoid foods that contain trans fats, including fried foods and many packaged baked goods. (Orly Avitzur, MD)

WHAT A CARD!

"We dressed him in his best dark blue suit, light blue shirt and red tie. We placed three cigars in his pocket, put on his toupee, put on the watch Gracie gave him, his ring and, in his pocket, his keys and his wallet with ten hundred-dollar bills, a five and three ones so wherever he went to play bridge he'd have enough money."

George Burns' majordomo, Daniel Dhoore, about funeral preparations for Burns, who died on January 10, 1996, at age 100.

B O N E

A SIMPLIFIED GUIDE FOR REMEMBERING BOARD VULNERABILITY

Think in sets of four boards, e.g., 1 - 4, 5 - 8, 9 - 12, and 13 - 16. The vulnerability for the first set, 1 - 4, starts O (noone vulnerable), then N (N-S vulnerable), then E (E-W vulnerable), and finally B (both vulnerable). For the second set of four, move the first O to the end of the set (5 - 8: NEBO). For the third set, move the first N-S to the end (9 - 12: EBON). For the fourth set, move the first E-W to the end (13 - 16: BONE). Repeat the system for sets 17-20 (like 1 - 4), 21 - 24 (like 5 - 8), and 25 - 28 (like 9 - 12). Then all you have to think of is a) which set of 4? and b) which cycle? EASY, HUH?

Brains on Retirement

For all the benefits of retirement - less stress, fewer obligations, time to travel.- new research paints a bleaker picture. Without careful attention and some preventative steps, retirement may take quite a toll on our faculties. The earlier people retire, the sooner they're apt to get Alzheimer's disease, according to a study of 392 men (International Journal of Geriatric Psychology, 2010). Another recent study showed that "retirement was negatively associated with cognitive test scores over time," implying that retirees may have more difficulty solving problems and understanding complex issues. Susann Rohwedder, who coauthored a 2009 study titled "Mental Retirement," says retirement drives lowered cognition, due maybe to the common hypothesis, "use it or lose it." Working, even part-time, may help forestall decline of mental faculties. But so can mentally stimulating hobbies, like bridge, learning a new language, or tutoring, says Marc Agronin, a geriatric psychiatrist and author of How We Age. Regular physical activity and frequent social interactions can also help.
