 SINGLE-SESSION 299er SWISS TEAMS (strat.) . . . . . TBA

Thank you all for coming to the 2014 Oregon Trail Regional.

I hope you go home with good memories and a few points!

We are so lucky to have the best directors in the Northwest, and I thank Matt Smith and his crew for a fantastic job.

Chuck Burns and his helpers were very efficient at the Partnership desk; I heard good things. And didn't you love all that chocolate at the Hospitality desk? Flo and Diane made good purchases. Dwayne sliced those Gala and Fuji apples for days, thank you, they were delicious. Kathy Mather's caddies did a fine job, as always.

I love our tournaments in District 20; I am glad you do too. Attendance was up from last year, and we will be here again next February. We will see you next on May 12 in Sunriver and then on August 4 in Medford!

Marie Ashton, Tournament Manager

THE OREGON TRAIL

(Power and Guidance, from the DVD "The Oregon Trail")

What animal would pull the massive wagons? That question was hotly debated. Horses were quickly rejected, because they could not live off prairie grasses along the way. Most emigrants decided on oxen; they were strong, could live off grass or sage, and were cheaper. They were patient, durable, gentle, and tame, but extremely slow - only about two miles an hour. The alternative was mules, which were faster but cantankerous, and didn't have the staying power of oxen. The emigrants usually hired an expert guide, a former mountain man who knew the route. Later, guide books, some better than others, became available and replaced guides. Finally, even guide books were not needed, because wagon traffic wore the ruts deep, and the route to Oregon was clear.

How to Be a Good Partner

Marty Bergen, The Bridge Bulletin, January 1984

- Remember that this is only a card game. Have a good time and make sure partner does too.
- Don't give lessons (unless you are being paid to do so).
- Like partner and root for him/her 100 percent. Remember you and partner are on the same side... and [partner] wants to win as much as you do. It's OK to be nice to a partner you happen to live with.
- When you choose to play bridge with someone, it is unfair to get upset when he/she doesn't play any better than usual.
- Never say anything to partner unless you would want him/her to say it to you. ...Never "result" (criticize partner for a normal action that didn't work this time).
- If you feel the urge to be nasty, sarcastic, or critical, excuse yourself and take a walk.
- When you have time between hands, try to discuss topics other than bridge. Never discuss a hand just played with your partner except to clear up a misunderstanding in bidding or defense.
- Think twice before verbally analyzing a hand (you may be wrong). Never assume partner made a mistake until the hand is over and you have time to think it through.
- When asking another player about a disaster, ask about your hand, not partner's. Don't ever criticize or embarrass partner in front of others. Never side with an opponent against your partner.
- If you are too good for a partner, or don't enjoy playing with him/her, choose someone else next time rather than being a martyr (but don't dump a partner unless you're sure).
