

IAN KIRK

Ian Kirk was born in Epping, in the county of Essex in England. He maintained his dry British wit throughout his life.

He married an American lass in 1993 in Portland, Oregon. When asked about his accent he said that it was from Eastern Oregon (far eastern).

His passion was bridge and he loved going to tournaments as a bridge professional. He was head director for a while at Vancouver Bridge Club and was supportive to many in that capacity.

He played bridge online, up until the last week, even in Hospice. His last text was "no bridge today".

He died of Colon Cancer on Jan 30, 2021.
